
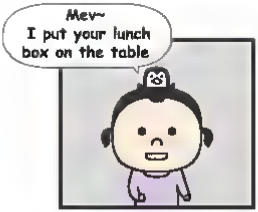
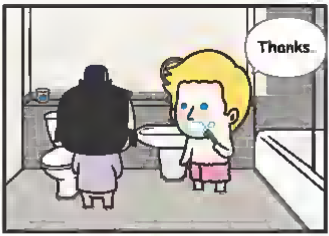
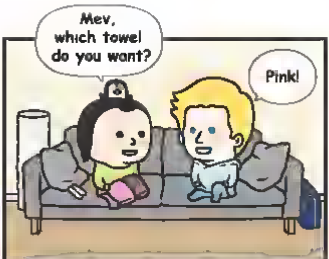
The I noticed that I have actually been following this unofficial colour rule for a long time.



Mev~
I put your lunch box on the table

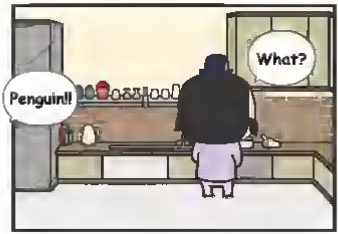


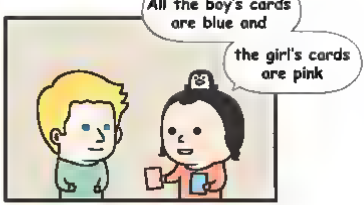
Thanks..



It doesn't mean that we deliberately do it but Mev sometimes uses a pink towel.

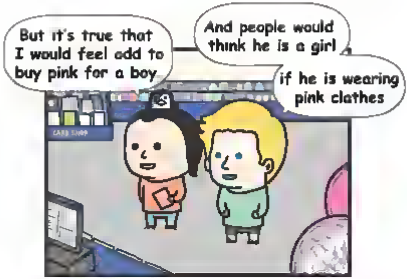
But sometimes...





We talked about colours and genders.

I know there is no rule for buying these colours.



But it's true that I would feel odd to buy pink for a boy.
And people would think he is a girl
if he is wearing pink clothes

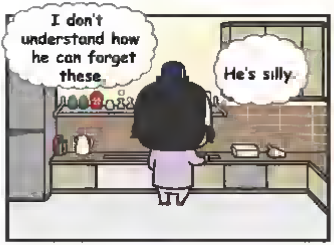
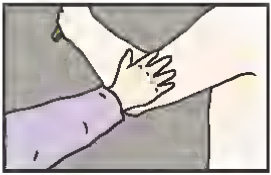
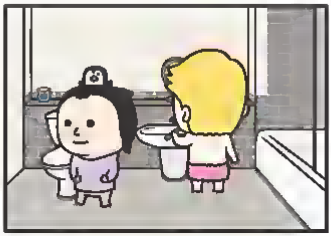
Mev gets confused by these colours.

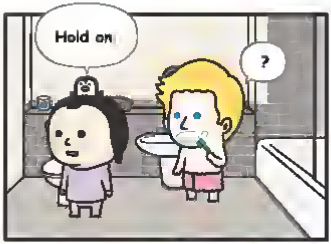




I can't describe my panic that day.

Gee!
That's mine.





Hold on

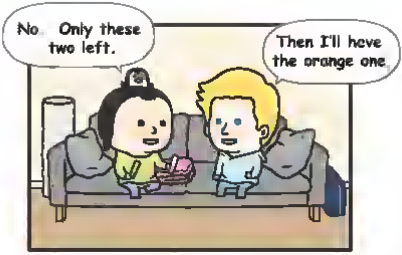
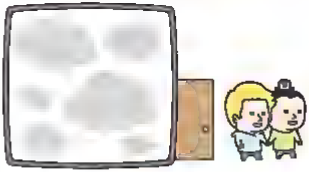
And I didn't like the rule much.

A few days later.



So there is no more men's colour or women's colour.



It's not a big deal but we felt like we were out of frame a little bit.

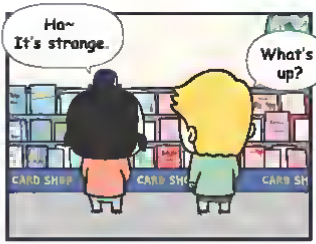
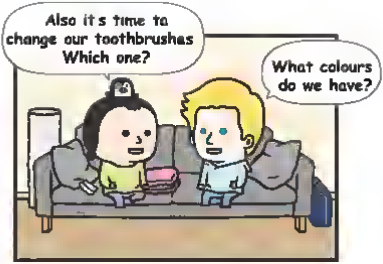
Our Colours



One day, Mev and I went to a card shop for Mev's friend who just had a baby.



And something like a toothbrush too
